District and county court are disposing of the dockets in their respective courts. Both tribunals are well up with the docket for the term.

Commissioner London has been suffering with a severe affliction of the skin and was compelled to undergo treatment at the Hards sanitarium. He was able to be at his office in the city hall today.

The city teachers' institute being conducted at the High school is developing a great deal of interest. All the teachers are looking forward to the opening of the city schools next Monday.

Quite a number of wild ducks have been seen on the various lakes surrounding the city and the chances are that on Friday, the opening day of the season, that several sports will try out their old shotguns once more on the elusive teal and mallard.

Nothing more has been heard from the Sharp hotel proposition since a request was sent for a survey of the lot. People are hoping that work will begin on this structure before long, as a modern hotel is one of the great needs of the city at this time.

Cotton was selling on the streets here today from 14.50 to 14.75. The recent rains have caused all estimates on the year's crop to be revised. Approximately 700 bales have been marketed here up to date, with the indication that the total will exceed fifteen thousand bales for the season.

On account of the absence of the mayor and the illness of Commissioner London, the regular meeting of the board of city commissioners was not held last night. A session will be held today to transact routine business and to appoint an acting mayor.

Some of the furniture for the new post office building has arrived and was being delivered yesterday. The desks and heavy furniture is still on the way and it will be several days before the post office is moved from its present quarters to the new building.

Farmers who were in the city today state that cotton buyers may look for a big surprise in the size of the crop if the present weather continues, most of them seeming to think that the fifteen thousand-bale estimate is too low.

The members of the board of trustees of the state confederate home spent the night at that institution and returned to the city, where the regular semi-annual meeting of the board will begin today. The members are all present and consist of Gen. D. M. Bailey of McAlester, president; T. D. Turner, Oklahoma City, vice president; G. H. Bruce,

Carter County Republicans Return From the State Convention.

The Carter county delegation to the Republican state convention returned this morning. They were proud of the fact that one of the membership, Col. E. L. Gregory, editor of the Statesman, was awarded the highest honor in the gift of the convention. He was chosen chairman and presided in his usual dignified manner.

The vice presidential candidate, Charles Warren Fairbanks, while speaking last night became very ill and had to retire from the platform. He afterward returned and spoke about ten minutes, but his face showed that he was suffering intensely.

Among those who attended from Ardmore were Col. E. L. Gregory, Col. David Redford, Jack Haddock, Hugh Weath, Pat Boye, Bob Hutchins, Everett Noble and Sam Noble.

EXTRACT FROM THE STATE GAME LAWS

OPEN AND CLOSED SEASON CHANGES WITH NEARLY EVERY SEASON—THE FEDERAL LAWS TAKE PRECEDENCE.

There are as many conflicting opinions about the game laws of Oklahoma and the government regulation covering migratory birds as there are hunters in the state and, to say the least of it, there is much confusion. For the benefit of local sportsmen the following is the best interpretation of both the state and federal laws that is available at this time, and where it may err in some minor instance, for the most part it is correct.

The following extract from the preface of the game laws was recently issued by John Chenoweth:

"In order that you may understand the conflict in our state laws and the regulations of the federal government, it is only necessary to say that where there is a conflict that the federal laws take precedence over any state laws. The government claims to own and have control of certain kinds of birds, migratory, water fowls, shore birds, or such birds as do not remain in any particular locality during all the year, or that migrate south in the cold season and return to the north in warm weather to rear its young."

Here is what the state law says regarding the open and closed season on all game and migratory birds:

- Deer, one in a season, November 15 to December 15.
- Wild turkey, one in a season, November 15 to December 31.
- Wild turkey gobbler, one in a season, March 15 to April 15.
- Quail, 10 in a day, 100 in a season, December 1 to December 31.
- Duck, goose, brant, ten in a day, 100 in a season, September 15 to January 31.
- Game fish, May 1 to February 1.
- Plover, September 1 to December 15.

Relative to government regulations of migratory birds, the act of congress approved March 4, 1913, says with reference to this zone in which Oklahoma is situated:

"Part of Regulation 9, Closed Seasons in Zone No. 2, as Pertains to Oklahoma:

"Waterfowl. The closed season shall be between February 1 and September 15.

"Ralls. The closed season on rails, coots and gallinules shall be between December 1 and September 1 next following.

"Woodcock. The closed season on woodcock shall be between January 1 and November 1.

"Shore Birds. The closed season on blackbreasted and golden plover, jacksnipe or Wilson snipe, and greater and lesser yellowlegs, shall be between December 15 and September 1 next following."

There is a mistaken idea prevalent in this locality that season on quail opens on November 15. A glance at the above table will convince them otherwise and quail shooting will not be permitted before the first day of December. The game wardens are making a strenuous effort to preserve the game of the state and every true sportsman can assist them by paying strict observance to the game laws.

There is a good deal of complaint throughout the entire south about the unfairness of the federal law, sportsmen claiming that people living in the northern states have all the best of it, and the southern sportsmen are going to see if the law cannot be amended to give them an even break.

To Identify Dead Soldiers.

London, Sept. 13.—In future each officer and soldier will be supplied with two identity discs, to be suspended from the neck. Though no explanation of the order for the innovation is given, it is thought that the idea is to use the second disc for the preservation of the identity of a body, after the first is removed for the purpose of the casualty list. The second disc will be suspended by six inches of cord from the upper, the former being red and the latter green.
